

Carry out your own PhD project!

Psychology

Clinical Psychology: Prof. Dr. Thomas Elbert (University of Konstanz)

The Hector Fellow Academy (HFA) offers you the opportunity to carry out a self-developed research project under supervision of one of the Hector Fellows listed above.* The Hector Fellows are a community of outstanding professors from different research institutions across Germany. They have been acknowledged by the Hector Foundation for their merit in research and teaching within the natural sciences, informatics, mathematics, medicine / psychology and engineering. In the context of the HFA they pass on their expertise to prospective young researchers.

Your profile

You are enthusiastic about developing and investigating an innovative research idea within one of the Hector Fellows' research field? You have a Master's degree in a relevant subject with excellent performance? You stand out from your peers because of strong commitment and independent work? You are team oriented and communicative? You are willing to change your place of residence to the university of the supervising Hector Fellow?

Our offer

As a PhD student funded by the HFA you are employed as full-time research assistant at the university of the corresponding Hector Fellow for a period of three years. The salary is determined by the institute's guidelines and is commensurate with the general pay scale of German universities (TV-L E13). In addition, you receive material expenses for your research project (15.000 Euro) and are given the opportunity to gain interdisciplinary expertise by participating in selected management modules (e.g. international project management).
